In vue.js I want to open file browser so I can choose the file. Is there anyway to achieve this? A: You can use a plugin from vuejs.com: npm install vue-image-upload Then in the template: toBase64(image) { return new Promise((resolve, reject) => { window.URL.createObjectURL(new Blob([image], {type: 'image/jpeg'})); resolve(image); }); } You can see a working example here This is repulsive! --------------------- Forwarded by Richard Shapiro/HOU/EES on 05/16/2000 08:46 AM -------------------------- Carol North 05/14/2000 05:58 PM To: Richard Shapiro/HOU/EES@EES cc: Subject: California These are the bills that California has voted on and are in effect. They currently have no money appropriated for them, nor provisions that would enact the bills as law without appropriations. They cannot be signed by the Governor. The Governor can however send them to the Legislature with a message that they would attempt to appropriate the money and enact the bills. The Governor signed six of the bills that are in effect. The bills are: AB 72 (Cardoza) - Renewable Energy Portfolio Standards Governor's Action: Signed AB 75 (Cardoza) - Green Homes/Energy Efficient Portfolio Standards Governor's Action: Not passed by Legislature SB 48x (Sher) - Conservation Standards for Electrical Generation Governor's Action: Signed AB 49x (Battin/Cardoza) - Green, renewable, and clean California energy

I would like to let you know that I enjoyed this time that I used your code. I used it to check the TSE's. I got some good results but the image was quite different from the original.1. Field of the Invention This invention relates to a primary rechargeable battery. 2. Description of the Related Art Japanese Laid-Open Patent Publication No. 2010-97448 discloses a primary rechargeable battery having a protection circuit. The protective circuit includes a detection element that is configured to detect the voltage and the current of a cell and change the charging rate of the cell according to whether or not these values reach a predetermined value. In the conventional primary rechargeable battery disclosed in Japanese Laid-Open Patent Publication No. 2010-97448, the detection element and the cell are housed in the same case. Thus, the temperature of the cell fluctuates due to the heating caused by the heat generated by the detection element. That is, the cell is provided with an insulation layer on an inner surface thereof. Thus, the heat of the cell is also conducted to the detection element via the insulation layer. The temperature of the detection element rises according to the heat generated by the detection element. As a result, the operation characteristics of the detection element deteriorate. Thus, it has been suggested to adjust the temperature of the detection element by changing the heat generated by the detection element. However, in the conventional configuration, it is difficult to reduce the heat generated by the detection element by adjusting the heat of the detection element.The present invention is directed to novel techniques for pulsed laser deposition of thin films of materials. More specifically, it is directed to the deposition of materials by pulsed laser deposition in such a manner as to avoid significant thermal effects. These techniques of pulsed laser deposition are a further development of techniques that are discussed 570a42141b
